Bacon shot dead: Reports

Jonathan Bacon 1 of 3 brothers RCMP have associated with gangs ◐ Police have alleged the brothers control the Red Scorpions gang ◐ 5 others wounded in attack

A brazen, gangland-style shooting with a machine gun in a bustling tourist area yesterday has apparently killed a member of one of British Columbia's most notorious families.

Jonathan Bacon, the eldest of three brothers at the centre of a bloody and long-standing gang war, died of injuries suffered when at least one masked gunman sprayed a car with bullets in downtown Kelowna, according to various media outlets.

Five other people in the SUV were rushed to hospital after the drive-by outside a luxury hotel at about 2:45 p.m., according to the B.C. Ambulance Service.

RCMP say the chaos began just after a group of people, including women, were seen leaving the Delta Grand hotel and getting into a white Porsche SUV.

As the vehicle prepared to leave, a silvery-green SUV drove up and stopped behind. At least one person emerged and opened fire.

Police spokesman Const. Steve Holmes wouldn't confirm the identity of the lone man killed or provide any information about the victims' ages, hometowns or relationships. Mounties don't believe any bystanders were injured, he said.

▶ RCMP officers investigate the scene after a masked gunman opened fire on a luxury car outside an upscale hotel in a tourist area of Kelowna yesterday.

"Police believe the general public is not at risk," said Holmes, explaining officers believe the shooting was targeted.

"It appeared that all the shots fired were directed at one particular vehicle."

Investigators are now searching for the suspect SUV. No arrests have been made.

Police will review video footage from cameras at the hotel and adjoining casino and are asking any witnesses who may have taken photographs or video to come forward.

Al Capone propeller stolen in West Van

A large brass propeller that once powered an Al Capone-owned rumrunner up and down the eastern seaboard was snatched in the dead of night Friday from a front yard in West Vancouver.

Owner Joe Spears acquired the prop in 2000 following the salvage of the vessel "Texada" in Haida Gwaii. He intended to donate it to a National Maritime Centre that was proposed in North Vancouver. METRO

Boston Bruins winger keeps Stanley Cup visit a low-key affair

Bitter Canucks fans being blamed for lack of public celebration

PHYLICIA TORREVILLAS

Milan Lucic was all smiles yesterday after he got off a private boat cruise with his friends and family, but his plans to parade hockey's Holy Grail around his hometown didn't go as planned.

According to media reports last week, Lucic's plans for a public cup event were curtailed, perhaps due to some bruised feelings of some Canucks fans.

Instead, Lucic decided to keep his plans low-key.

He started his day off at the airport to pick up the Stanley Cup and then headed to the St. Archangel Michael Serbian Church. The East Vancouverite also stopped for a few minutes at Vancouver Fire Hall 4 to take pictures with some of the firefighters.

"Being in Vancouver and Boston winning, I guess it wasn't a big thing for Milan to pronounce as it as anything big," said Cpt. Al Chorney at Fire Hall 4.

"He didn't want it to look like he was rubbing it in everyone's faces. Milan Lucic is a wonderful man."

Lucic, along with his family, friends and some of his former Vancouver Giants teammates, then spent most of the day cruising along Coal Harbour, Stanley Park and False Creek.

When their boat drove by Granville Island, a huge crowd at the public market cheered him on when he hoisted the cup. They ended their day at Grouse Mountain for a private party.

Lucic had five goals and seven assists in the postseason to help the Bruins to their first Stanley Cup since 1972.

Weekend passes $20 million

Doug Nelson, CEO of the B.C. Cancer Foundation, sat and relaxed in a pink massage chair yesterday after the Weekend to End Women's Cancers, a gruelling two-day 60-kilometre walk for cancer research.

"There are some great stories from everyone who walked," said Nelson yesterday.

"Whether it's a loss or celebration, these stories are inspiring."

The event has raised $20 million for cancer research over eight years.

Participants took part in either a 60-km walk over two days (including a night of camping), or a one-day walk of 30 km.

There were about 1,000 walkers over the course of the weekend.

TRANSIT IN THE CITY

Compare and contrast

Do you think your city has the steepest bus fare in the country? Or that there aren't enough buses during rush hour? For the next three days, Metro will be analyzing the transit systems in eight cities across the country and catching up with commuters to find out what grinds their gears — and what they love — about transit in their city

VANCOUVER

- KM SERVED: 1,800-square kilometres.
- TYPES OF TRANSPORT: Bus, electric trolley, train, subway, ferry.
- COST PER RIDE: $2.50; transfer good for 90 minutes.

All about the money

TERRIS SCHNEIDER
VANCOUVER@METRONEWS.CA

The future of transit in the Lower Mainland depends on money, says TransLink spokesman Drew Snider.

"Right now, there is a finite amount of capacity, and the budget won't allow us to expand."

If the mayor's council approves a Moving Forward Funding Supplement, transit will be able to expand to the Northeast Sector along the proposed Evergreen Line.

Future plans also include extending SkyTrain into Surrey and pushing the Millennium Line down Broadway to the University of B.C.

Tories warn asbestos widow not to use logo

- Canada faces rising criticism over its asbestos exports
- Tories insist material is safe when handled properly

The federal Conservative party has sent a threatening email to the widow of an asbestos victim in the latest chapter of Canada's debate over the hazardous mineral.

A top Tory official is warning the woman to stop using the party logo in an online ad campaign against the controversial industry — a campaign she started after her husband died of an asbestos-related cancer.

Michaela Keyserlingk, whose husband Robert died in 2009 of mesothelioma, has been running an online banner since the spring that reads, "Canada is the only western country that still exports deadly asbestos!"

Conservative party executive director Dan Hilton warned Keyserlingk to stop using the Tory symbol immediately. "Failure to do so may result in further action," Hilton wrote in a July 29 email which carried the subject title, Unauthorized use of trademark. The email, which The Canadian Press obtained from Keyserlingk, went on to advise her: "Please govern yourself accordingly."

The exchange comes as Canada faces intensifying international criticism over its asbestos exports and the Quebec government mulls whether to help revive one of the country's last-remaining mines — a decision that could come as early as today.

Body of skydiver found in N.B. field

The RCMP is investigating the death of a man who went skydiving Saturday afternoon in New Brunswick.

Police said the 34-year-old's body was found in a field off Highway 115 in Notre-Dame, about 30 kilometres north of Moncton. "The skydiver fell to his death," Sgt. Jamie Melanson said yesterday in an interview. "We received a call that there was a body and, for all intents and purposes, it was a skydiving accident."

Police said the man was from Notre-Dame, but did not release his name pending notification of his family. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Britain's gangs look to U.S. for inspiration

Street gangs copy actions, style of American rappers, on-screen gangsters

The Burger Bar Boys. The Cash or Slash Money Crew. The Bang Bang Gang. These names might sound straight out of a dime-store novel, but they're real-life Birmingham gangs — underground armies that spearheaded England's worst riots in a generation.

As Britain comes to grips with last week's riots, Prime Minister David Cameron has identified the growth of violent gangs as a key factor and is recruiting high-profile American anti-gang experts to help bring them to heel.

While senior British police officers openly resent that move, analysts of gang culture say it seems logical to seek American assistance, because today's British gangs consciously ape American gang ambitions and style, from the bling to the lingo.

They talk in a street patois shaped by U.S. rap lyrics, use noms de guerre lifted straight from American gangster films and crime dramas, and choose such icons as Don Corleone, Al Pacino's Scarface or Baltimore ganglord Stringer Bell of The Wire TV series as their avatars on social-networking sites.

British law enforcement authorities admit that, until only a few years ago, they sought to minimize the scale and potential of their homegrown gangs. They promoted their preferred label of "delinquent youth groups" and billed full-blooded street gangs as an American phenomenon.

In the wake of the August riots — when gangs used text-messaging and social media to deploy break-in artists to breach steel-shuttered shops — politicians now use the G word pointedly.

DAVID JONES/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ In this Aug. 9 photo, youths run from an electronics store in Birmingham, England, as disturbances saw looting and vehicles set alight.

"These teenage gangsters are creating their own criminal worlds, and in their minds it's very much an Americanized world. When they talk about the police, it's 'the Feds,' or 'The 5-0,' as in Hawaii 5-0."

CARL FELLSTROM, AN EXPERT ON ENGLAND'S GANGS

"Territorial, hierarchical and incredibly violent, the gangs are mostly composed of young boys, mainly from dysfunctional homes," Cameron told the House of Commons in an emergency debate on the riots. "They earn money through crime, particularly drugs, and are bound together by an imposed loyalty to an authoritarian gang leader. They have blighted life on their estates, with gang-on-gang murders and unprovoked attacks on police."

Hundreds march for equality, gay rights in Nepal

Gay, lesbian and transgender people marched with supporters in a southern Nepal town yesterday to demand equal rights under a new constitution the country is in the process of writing.

The estimated 500 demonstrators danced, chanted slogans and marched around Narayanghat, a town about 160 kilometre south of the capital of Kathmandu yesterday, which is also Nepal's traditional festival of Gaijatra honouring the dead. Gay-rights activists and parliament member Sunil Pant said their main aim was to spread their campaign outside the capital city.

The gay community has been holding demonstrations on the festival day in the capital, but it was the first time that activists have organized a rally outside the capital.

The country is also in the process of writing a new constitution, which could include provisions to guarantee rights for the sexual minorities.

However, the new constitution has been delayed several times following differences among the country's political parties on various other issues.

Out and proud

- Parliament member Sunil Pant said more people are declaring their sexual orientation in urban areas, but people in rural villages are still afraid.
- According to sexual-rights advocates, transvestites were beaten by both the public and police.

RETURN TO THE ISLAND

Norway attack simulated

The chilling images of Anders Behring Breivik simulating shots into the water at the island where he killed 69 people at a youth camp were broadcast around the world yesterday after police brought him back there.

Restrained by a harness, the Norwegian reconstructed his actions for police in a secret day-long trip back to the crime scene at Utoya island near Oslo.

Police said they took Breivik back to Utoya for a Saturday hearing about the attacks on July 22, when Breivik shot the victims at the lake island after killing eight people in the capital with a bomb.

First political trip to countryside inspires roadside cheers in Myanmar

Thousands of well-wishers lined roadsides in Myanmar to welcome opposition leader Aung San Suu Kyi as she tested the limits of her freedom yesterday by taking her first political trip into the countryside since being released from house arrest.

The military-dominated country's government had warned that the democracy icon's journey could trigger riots, but it took place peacefully in two towns north of the main city of Yangon, and Suu Kyi returned home without incident.

The last time Suu Kyi travelled out of Yangon to meet supporters, assailants ambushed her entourage. She escaped harm but was detained and placed under seven years of house arrest.

Yesterday, Suu Kyi travelled in a three-car convoy followed by about 27 more vehicles filled mostly with journalists and supporters.

Teen dies at Brazilian fun park

Brazilian police say a part from a roller coaster came loose at an amusement park outside Rio de Janeiro, striking and killing a teenager who was waiting in line to buy tickets for the ride.

Investigators in the suburb of Recreio dos Bandeirantes say 10 other people were injured in the incident Saturday night.

Egypt charges noted blogger

Activist Asmaa Mahfouz released on bail Accused of inciting violence via social networking sites

Egypt's military prosecution charged a prominent activist yesterday with slandering and inciting violence against the country's ruling generals through social networking sites, lawyers said.

This is one of the most serious charges levied against activists who have played a key role in mobilizing Egyptians to the protests that forced President Hosni Mubarak to step down 18 days later.

Lawyer Ali Atef said the case of blogger Asmaa Mahfouz was "a warning" to other activists against criticizing the military.

Fight the power

- Mahfouz was released yesterday on $3,400 bail after more than four hours of interrogation.
- Activists collected money to pay the bail and ensure her release pending trial.
- The incitement charges could carry a sentence of more than 10 years.
- A trial date is up to the discretion of the military prosecutor.
- She is accused of inciting violence by using Twitter to criticize the slow procedure of trials, and warning that people may take justice into their own hands.

Syria uses gunboats to battle uprising

Syria used gunboats for the first time yesterday to crush the uprising against Bashar Assad's regime, hammering parts of the Mediterranean coastal city of Latakia after thousands marched there over the weekend to demand the president's ouster. At least 25 people were killed, according to activists.

The co-ordinated attacks by gunboats and ground troops were the latest wave of a brutal offensive against anti-government protests launched at the beginning of the month. The assault showed Assad has no intention of scaling back the campaign even though it has brought international outrage.

Practical Nurses Continue to Play Important Roles in BC's Healthcare System

Vancouver Career College is still accepting applications for the September start of its Practical Nursing program. This is a terrific opportunity for those looking to enter the growing healthcare field.

For the last several years Canadians have been concerned about the impact of an aging population on the country's healthcare system. As baby boomers enter retirement and more people require increased medical attention and healthcare assistance, the healthcare system is turning to licensed practical nurses (LPNs) to provide support in hospitals, long-term care facilities and care homes. Those looking for career opportunities in this high-demand field can gain the necessary education and credentials through Vancouver Career College's 51-week Practical Nursing program.

Students enrolled in the Practical Nursing diploma program will acquire with the theoretical knowledge and hands-on experience required on-the-job. Throughout the program, the college's industry experienced instructors will prepare students with the fundamentals of community health, gerontology and acute care.

"The Practical Nursing program at Vancouver Career College is an accredited program for dedicated individuals looking to play a role in our healthcare system," says Tara Moore, PN Coordinator at Vancouver Career College's Burnaby campus. "We offer courses in health, healing, nursing arts, human relationships, communication, and job search strategies that will help them in the field after graduation."

In addition, students complete several clinical practicum placements in a range of nursing fields and a final internship that will help ease their move into the professional world.

The Practical Nursing program meets the training standards established by the College of Licensed Practical Nurses of British Columbia (CLPNBC). Graduates will be prepared to write the Canadian Practical Nurse Registration Exam (CPNRE) and, upon passing, be eligible to apply for licensing with the CLPNBC.

Vancouver Career College is still accepting applications for the 51-week Practical Nursing program's September session at its campuses in Abbotsford, Burnaby and Kelowna. Program length may change for future sessions due to curriculum revisions.

Father charged with slashing baby

JEREMY NOLAIS/METRO

▶ Elodie Nana lives across the street from the home where a baby was slashed. "I'm scared," said the mother of two.

Police have laid an attempted murder charge against a Calgary father after his 11-month-old baby was found with "significant" slash wounds to his neck and abdomen.

The incident occurred shortly after 4 a.m. Saturday in the southeast community of Cranston.

Staff Sgt. Kelly Campbell said the gruesome wounds were inflicted using a knife in the kitchen of the home where the youngster lived.

She said quick-thinking officers arriving on scene were able to disarm a man found in the home and the child was rushed to hospital with potentially life-threatening injuries.

"It looked like the male was agitated, in a state of disarray," Campbell said.

Word of charges laid against the boy's father yesterday sent further shockwaves through Cranston, as parents could barely stomach details of the alleged crime.

"I'm appalled, disgusted, speechless," said Deanna Christensen, who has a one-year-old baby of her own. "I can't believe this happened in our community."

The child is expected to make a full recovery. To protect him, the identity of the accused is not being released.

Ownership claim is 'fraud': Facebook

Lawyers say 'painstaking forensic analysis' proves claimant's contract with founder is fake

Attorneys for Facebook and its founder, Mark Zuckerberg, say they have found "smoking gun" evidence on a New York man's computer proving he made up his claim that a contract he signed with Zuckerberg in 2003 gives him part ownership of the social network.

Facebook attorney Orin Snyder said Paul Ceglia has not complied with a judge's order to hand over certain electronic documents and has mislabelled others as confidential.

"He does not want the public to know what was discovered on his computers because it includes smoking-gun documents that conclusively establish that he fabricated the purported contract and that this entire lawsuit is a fraud," Snyder wrote.

Ceglia, of Wellsville, N.Y., says he and Zuckerberg signed a two-page agreement in 2003 to split the proceeds from Zuckerberg's idea for an online yearbook if it got off the ground. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WHAT'S YOUR HIDDEN GEM OF THE CITY?

URBAN COMPASS

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO VANCOUVER

Have you ever hopped on one of those Big Bus tours of Vancouver, just to see what the tourists see?

The usual suspects are well-represented: Stanley Park, Gastown, Granville Island, English Bay, etc. And they're all great.

But the bus could run out of gas and still not see everything. There's too much. It's too vast. To scope it all, the tourists are going to need our help.

Here's an idea: What's your favourite spot in all of Metro? Send it in to Metro and we'll put together a list that will get the tourists off the beaten track (sorry, Search and Rescue) and even renew our interest in exploring our own Big Back Yard.

To get you started, I've nominated my own top five that aren't on the bus, at least not yet:

"Before he died, I would drive out here with my 90-plus-year-old uncle, after a visit to White Spot, and we'd park and count the number of tankers waiting to get into the harbour and people-watch. I know ... but he liked it. Confirmed: people and their dogs do look alike."

5) Lighthouse Park: A slice of old-growth forest nestled in the expensive West Van real estate. Hug an 800-year-old tree, see the lighthouse up close, sun yourself on the rocks like a seal, and get as close to the real ocean — Georgia Strait — as you can get. They don't make trees like that back in Kansas, Toto.

4) Capilano-Pacific Trail: Travels along the Capilano River from Cleveland Dam to the ocean, from the forest primeval to Park Royal. Weird. Even weirder, it goes right past the Capilano Suspension Bridge compound, so all the tourists watch you go by and wonder how you get there. And it's free.

3) Spanish Banks: Before he died, I would drive out here with my 90-plus-year-old uncle, after a visit to White Spot, and we'd park and count the number of tankers waiting to get into the harbour and people-watch. I know ... but he liked it. Confirmed: people and their dogs do look alike.

2) Beaver Lake: A natural miracle, a 10-minute jog from the epicentre of downtown. On a trail that's exactly one kilometre around the lake, you can see the aforementioned beaver, plus herons, eagles, ducks, raccoons, ground squirrels, geese and a number of confused German tourists: this is a lake? Well, it's more like a swamp, but it's the most picturesque swamp in the world.

1) Edgemont Village: So I live on the North Shore. We all have valuable local knowledge, and I'm here to testify that on a warm sunny day in August, there's no finer place to be than on the corner of Highland and Edgemont boulevards at an outdoor table with a latté and an iPad. It's the centre of my universe.

OK, now it's your turn.

Worth Mentioning

SMALL TOWN. Small Canadian towns are painfully aware of the existential predicament they face. Few are strangers to the sobering realities of declining and aging populations, young people fleeing to cities, difficulty maintaining infrastructure, and sky-high unemployment.

But residents of some small towns are working to reverse the trend, drawing both on creative ideas and on the good old-fashioned community spirit that tiny towns are known for.

Residents of the small Quebec village of Notre-Dame-de-Ham have begun a citizens' co-operative to start a combined convenience store/gas station/restaurant. So far, they have 97 members who have contributed $35,000. That means nearly one-quarter of the town's 440 overall residents participated.

Bill Reimer, a Concordia University professor, said one small town, Warner, Alta. — population, 383 — managed, with one crumbling arena and a good local coach, to start an all-girls hockey school that has become nationally renowned. "It's all about finding your niche," he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

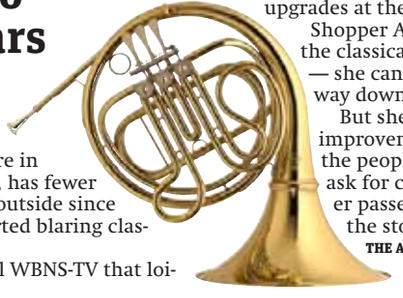
WEIRD NEWS

Fewer people loitering is music to their ears



Shoppers and employees say a convenience store in Columbus, Ohio, has fewer people hanging outside since the business started blaring classical music.

Customers tell WBNS-TV that loitering has declined quickly outside the United Dairy Farmers location in the Columbus Short North neighbourhood.

Workers, who have also noticed a change, say the new music went on earlier this week as part of upgrades at the store.

Shopper Allie Beck says the classical music is loud — she can hear it all the way down the street.

But she says it's an improvement over all the people who used to ask for change or bother passersby outside the store.

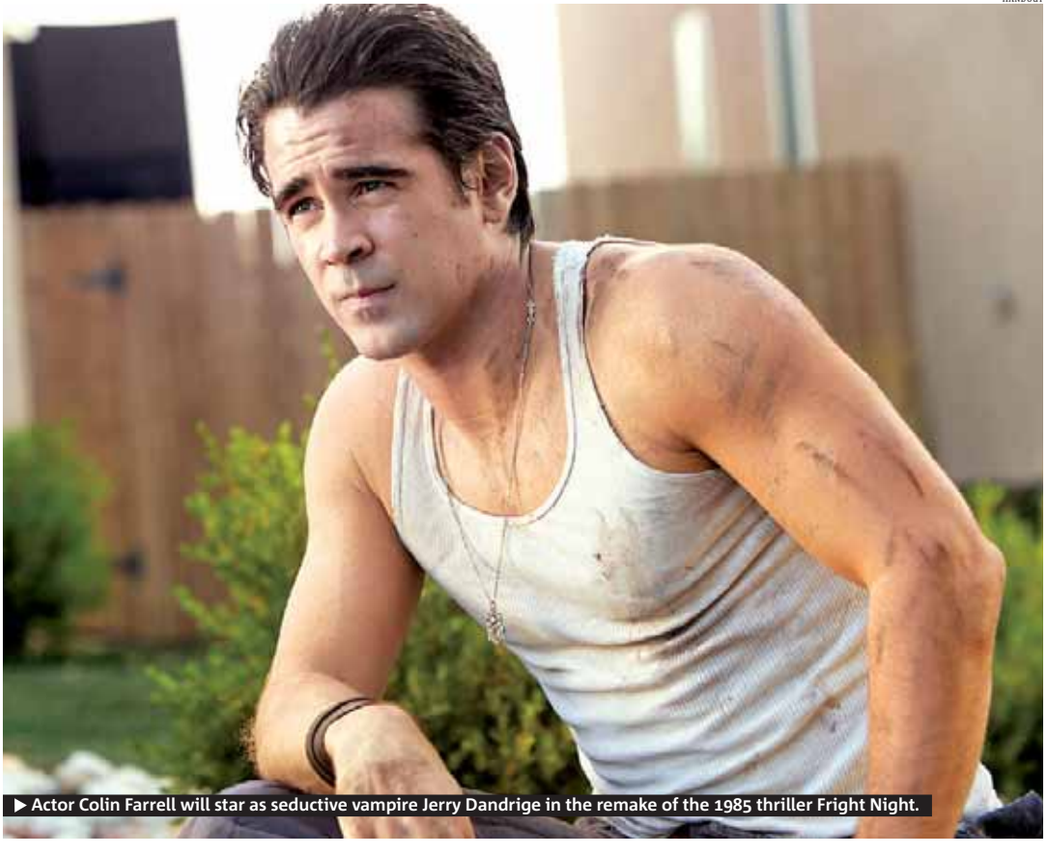
A remake with its own beat

Disney's remake of the classic thriller, Fright Night, pays homage to the original while adding own twist to the story Farrell tries to bring his own quirks to vampire character

CHRIS ALEXANDER
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

HANDOUT



▶ Actor Colin Farrell will star as seductive vampire Jerry Dandrige in the remake of the 1985 thriller Fright Night.

Tom Holland's original, sublimely campy 1985 vampire thriller Fright Night is one of the most beloved horror films of its decade and the concept of a remake was met with sneers from its most ardent admirers.

How could anyone possibly duplicate the smooth, suave, seductive charm of actor Chris Sarandon as murderous suburban vampire Jerry Dandridge? According to Colin Farrell, who inherited the role in Disney's splashy new 3D remount, you can't.

"Chris was just charismatic, elegant, beautiful and dignified," Farell told Metro last weekend in Toronto.

"My guy has more of an emotional disconnect. In essence there was a lot in the first film that I wish I could have played, but this is a different guy, he's more predatory. If you were around my Jerry, it would be perfectly normal but there's just something…not right."

Farrell's sexy bloodsucking beast is the lethal neighbour of average Nevada teen Charlie Brewster (Anton Yelchin), who slowly starts to believe his nerdy pal Ed (Christopher Mintz-Plasse) and his wild tales of the undead roaming their bedroom community.

"… there was a lot in the first film that I wish I could have played, but this is a different guy, he's more predatory."
COLIN FARRELL

After a few close fang shaves, Brewster seeks famous Vegas magician/supernatural authority Peter Vincent (David Tennant) to help him put the stake to Dandridge once and for all.

The film uses the original picture's template as a springboard to forge a gory, funny romp with its own beat, though it often takes the time to wink at fans of the first film, including referencing vampire Dandridge's fondness for fruit.

"I had to get that in," says Farrell of echoing the original's sequences of Dandridge eating apples between killings. "It was just one of those things, a nod to the original. I rolled the apple off table and kind of threw it to myself. As Chris Sarandon said to me, (Dandridge) is a fruit bat. But my version also drinks beer…" Fright Night 3D opens on Friday.

Rogers' FX move may scare big Canadian broadcasters

Broadcaster outmanoeuvres big players in a deal to bring a number of American 'buzz' series to Canada

HANDOUT

▶ Jessica Lange stars in American Horror Story.

This Halloween, Canadians will be in for the scare of the season when American Horror Story premieres as part of the launch of FX Canada.

The intense new drama, which stars Jessica Lange, Connie Britton and Dylan McDermott, rattled reporters when it was screened at the recent Television Critics Association summer press tour in Los Angeles. That it is part of an aggressive new programming strategy from Rogers should also throw a North American Horror Story scare into rival broadcasters in Canada this fall. Rogers' announcement last Saturday in Los Angeles that they have partnered with Fox on importing FX finally brings one of the most prized U.S. cable programming brands north of the border.

"We're real excited about it," says Scott Moore, Rogers broadcasting president, who says advertisers are keen to buy into FX fare like Sons of Anarchy.

The move comes as Rogers, which also owns City, Sportsnet, the OMNI stations and several digital TV channels, continues to crash the cosy CTV/Global big boys broadcast club. In May, Rogers reportedly outmanoeuvred traditional Fox buyer Global (owned by Shaw), scooping several "buzz" shows for fall, including Steven Spielberg's dino drama Terra Nova, The Playboy Club and the comedy New Girl starring critics' darling Zooey Deschanel.

When it was suggested at those acquisition meetings that Rogers might want to take a look at the FX comedy Wilfred (starring Elijah Wood), talks began to swing more toward buying a share of the entire FX brand. Those negotiations, spearheaded by Rogers' executive vice president Malcolm Dunlop, continued until just before an agreement was announced last Saturday at the TCA press tour. The deal brings most of the current FX show line-up to Canada under one roof for the first time. Some FX shows, such as the Emmy-nominated modern western Justified aren't part of the deal — yet.

Justified, which is distributed in Canada by Sony, currently airs on the premium Pay-TV service Super Channel. FX executives are negotiating with Sony to eventually swing that series to FX Canada. Other shows, such as popular biker drama Sons of Anarchy, will also have a delayed migration. FX Canada subscribers will catch up with the first and second season of that series before rights to Seasons three and four are transferred.

The most valuable FX asset Rogers now shares may not be the programs but the president and general manager, John Landgraf.

In seven years at the helm, Landgraf has helped craft one of the most admired brands in U.S. television. It's not just the shows that have emerged — Rescue Me, Damages, It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia — it is the way Landgraf does business. Nine out of the last 10 pilots FX has ordered have gone to air, an extraordinarily efficient ratio. (Broadcasters, such as NBC or ABC, typically shoot as many as 20 pilots before settling on a few fall entries.)

Hagman slips back in J.R. role

▶ Larry Hagman

Larry Hagman says slipping back into the character of J.R. Ewing for the upcoming Dallas TV reboot was "just like an old shoe."

"It's comfortable and it's nice to be working at 80," the actor said in a telephone interview from Santa Monica, Calif.

Hagman is reprising his role as the evil Texas oil baron alongside Patrick Duffy as his brother Bobby, and Linda Gray — who played his long-suffering wife Sue Ellen on the hit night-time soap, which ran from 1978 to 1991.

"It's part of your personality," he said of settling back into the iconic role. "It's hard to lose that."

The TNT series is scheduled to air next year and focuses on a new generation of Ewings.

Hagman revealed of the new story line that J.R. has fallen on hard times and that Sue Ellen is now running the family company.

Tells judge she can't afford a therapist Judge doesn't buy it

Lindsay Lohan has reportedly started therapy for her issues, as ordered by the court — and just in time, as the deadline for the troubled actress to start treatment is later this week, according to E! Online.

During a court appearance last month, Lohan had told the judge she was trying to find the cash to pay for therapy. In response, the judge told Lohan's lawyer that the actress "needs to find an individual therapist that takes a credit card."

Winehouse letters, tracks, lyrics stolen

In another blow to Amy Winehouse's already upset family, unreleased tracks, lyrics and letters by the late singer have reportedly been stolen from her London home, according to Hollyscoop.

"This is such a sickening shock to the family," the source says.

"The family, record label and management are months away from deciding what to do with any unreleased music. For that to be taken out of their hands is horrible."

Winehouse's father, Mitch Winehouse, is reportedly hoping the issue will resolve itself, though.

"Mitch is willing to give whoever has stolen the items a chance to do the right thing and put them back so it doesn't have to get messy," the source says.

30 Rock star Tina Fey and husband Jeff Richmond welcomed their second daughter last week, her rep confirms to Us Weekly.

Penelope Athena was born August 10, joining her big sister, 5-year-old Alice. Fey wrote in her memoir, Bossypants, that she felt compelled to give Alice a sibling: "I thought that raising an only child would be the norm in Manhattan, but my daughter is the only child in her class without a sibling. Most kids have at least two," she wrote.

"Who will be my daughter's family when my husband and I are dead from stress-induced cankers? She must have a sibling." METRO

Yeah, baby — Powers is back

Mike Myers has signed a deal to star in a fourth Austin Powers movie, according to HitFix. There's no word on whether Jay Roach, who directed the first three films, will be returning as well.

Myers' last live-action starring role was in 2008's The Love Guru, which was a critical and commercial failure. He's since kept a fairly low profile, lending his voice to a forth Shrek film and making a cameo in Quentin Tarantino's Inglourious Basterds.

Myers married girlfriend Kelly Tisdale last year and recently announced that they're expecting their first child later this year.

With a three-year-old daughter and a baby on the way, Jessica Alba takes on a kid-friendly role in Spy Kids 4 Conversations with the director led to the development of her character

NED EHRBAR
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

HANDOUT/X

▶ Jessica Alba, a soon-to-be-mother of two, stars in Spy Kids 4. This is her first children's movie.

"When they're done with college, if they want to get into the arts, that's fine. But I wouldn't encourage them to work in this type of environment."
JESSICA ALBA ON DISCOURAGING HER KIDS FROM GETTING INTO SHOW BIZ

Robert Rodriguez is known for bouncing between pulpy grown-up flicks like Sin City and kid-friendly fare like the Spy Kids series, but actress Jessica Alba, who stars in Spy Kids 4, had never seen him take on the latter.

"Robert doesn't change and his process doesn't change," she insists. "But there's a lightheartedness on a set where when there's kids around. You're not blowing things up and there's no half-naked girls and machine guns. There's no cursing. It's kids' stuff and toys."

While this is the third time Alba has teamed with Rodriguez, it's the first time they've done something family-friendly together. "I talked to Robert about wanting to do a movie that my daughter could see," she says. "There's a lot of natural comedy in being a first-time parent and just being in day-to-day situations."

Of course, in Spy Kids 4, a day-to-day situation could mean fighting off evil henchmen and car chases while extremely pregnant, which Alba does early in the film. "Walking up stairs is challenging when you're nine months pregnant," she admits. "I think it was really just a great comedic set-piece. Like, what if a woman's going through contractions while trying to save the world? And, of course, a woman's going to try to do it all."

Alba later found out that it was her conversations with Rodriguez that led to much of her character — a professional spy who puts work on hold for her family. "He said that my character was inspired by just seeing me trying to balance it all — and probably not doing the greatest job at it, but trying at least," she says with a laugh.

One of the ways she and husband Cash Warren try is by making family the top priority on the weekends. "That's when my husband and I make a concerted effort to not e-mail or text and really spend our time with our daughter and just be completely, 100 per cent focused on her," she says. "During the week, it's here and there depending on if I'm busy with meetings or not. It's a little easier now that she's in school. But it's tough, because I do care about my career. But she's my No. 1 priority, so if she's not doing OK, nothing else really matters."

While baby No. 2 is due any day now, Alba is already thinking about what's on her plate next — and it's not necessarily more family fare. "It's not like I want to only do family or kids' movies from now on," she says. "It's just nice to have a movie that my daughter can actually watch. I do miss doing action, and after I have the baby, I'm looking for a good action movie to do."

Seek sustainable seafood

Half the battle for those looking for eco-friendly options is finding the right label ◗ WWF is helping

BEN KNIGHT

▶ Removing the guesswork when it comes to sustainable seafood is half the battle for those trying to make smart purchases.

For many Canadians, the biggest environmental shock in recent decades came with the collapse of the Atlantic fishery. And while seafood remains plentiful across the country, a lot of consumers still worry they're contributing to making a bad situation worse. A recent World Wildlife Fund-Canada study found that 91 per cent of Canadians feel it is important that their fish, shrimp and lobster come from sustainable, non-overfished stocks. By contrast, only eight per cent felt they had adequate information about where their seafood comes from.

"It's gratifying that the message is out there," says Robert Rangeley, VP Atlantic for WWF-Canada.

"Canadians are concerned."

The good news? Sustainable seafood exists — and availability is on the rise.

"The most basic thing is that we're not overfishing the stock," Rangeley explains. "If you buy cod, haddock or lobster, sustainability means the population of that species can continue to be harvested in the method being used in perpetuity."

Consumers can identify these products with a logo from the Marine Stewardship Council, a stylized blue logo incorporating a checkmark and a fish.

"Part of the problem we're facing right now is availability," he adds. "If you see the MSC logo — that's the blue checkmark — that's pretty clear. Unfortunately, not all packagers put the checkmark on. We're trying to solve this problem to ensure that everything that a consumer buys is verified."

MSC and WWF are about to get some high-powered Canadian retail help.

"Loblaw has made a public commitment to only source sustainable seafood by 2013. That will remove a lot of the guesswork for consumers."

Sustainable seafood doesn't come from any one country. Canadian fisheries are recovering, but Blue-checkmark packages can originate from many diverse and different nations.

"We still have a long way to go in terms of the health of our oceans — not just in Canada, but around the world," Rangeley notes. "Part of the goal here is to reward best practices. We want to improve the ways our fisheries are managed, and reward best practices through the marketplace."

Slow and steady progress, in other words — with consumers playing a crucial role in ensuring the sustainability of a vital resource.

"It's like turning a great big ugly ship that's going the wrong way towards a rocky reef," Rangeley concludes. "Our goal at WWF is to work around the world with leading retailers and processors, and turn this thing around."

Some kids are not all right

More Canadian students under pressure are seeking out counselling

Universities across the country will be keeping a watchful eye on their flocks, looking for signs of distress as the fall semester kicks off.

Many are training residence dons and even professors to spot struggling students, part of a broader effort that has seen universities roll out suicide awareness campaigns, wellness classes and stress-management workshops in recent years.

The push comes as campus clinics scramble to assist a growing number of students seeking help as they wrestle with depression, post-traumatic stress, eating disorders and other conditions.

And even with a list of seminars, clubs and centres to choose from, students say it can be hard to know where to turn for help.

Demand for mental health services "has grown exponentially" over the past decade, said Dr. Robert Franck, who heads the mental health clinic at McGill University in Montreal.

Last year, the clinic — one of the few in the country with several psychiatrists on staff — saw some 1,500 new students on top of those who return year-to-year, totalling more than 18,000 visits, he said.

"We try to give appointments within two weeks, because two weeks in the life of a student ... it's very important when they're struggling and in trouble," he said.

At the same time, "the focus for universities is not just facilities for treatment, but looking at preventive measures," particularly for first-year students, he said.

Djokovic's reign continues

Top seed battles his way to victory at Rogers Cup ‘This year by far has been the best in my career’: Djokovic

The wins keep piling up for Novak Djokovic, who now has a second men's Rogers Cup title in his collection.

The world's top-ranked player posted a hard-fought 6-2, 3-6, 6-4 victory over sixth-seeded American Mardy Fish yesterday, a popular outcome before a mostly pro-Djokovic full house on centre court at Uniprix Stadium in Montreal.

It was Djokovic's ninth tournament victory of the year and a record fifth win in one season in an ATP Masters 1,000 event. The Wimbledon champion from Serbia improved his record this year to 53-1, including a perfect 29-0 on hard courts.

"I am human — I can definitely assure you of that," the 24-year-old said with a broad smile. "I guess it's just all about having a positive attitude on the court every day, waking up every day wanting to improve, wanting to win, being determined, being professional.

"It's that desire and motivation that keeps me going. Every match I play, I try to win, regardless which match is it or whoever is across the net."

On this day, he had an opponent nearly as hot as he was in Fish, who was in his third tournament final in a row.

Fish has now lost all seven career meetings with Djokovic, but he gave the top seed a battle with his awkward mix of baseline and attacking play.

"I'm sure that there is going to be, you know, bad days ... I just feel that now I'm playing the best tennis of my life."
NOVAK DJOKOVIC

It was 2-2 in the third set before Fish lost a weak service game that gave away the match. But the 29-year-old never quit, battling back from 0-40 in the final game and forcing Djokovic to complete the win on his fourth match point.

"I put myself in a lot of positions to have chances," said Fish. "I just didn't execute on the big points.

"There's a reason why (Djokovic) has won so many matches this year. He's got to be leading the tour in break points saved, I'm sure, among other things."

Djokovic, who won his first Rogers Cup title in 2007, picked up $450,000 US for the win. Fish earned $224,000 for his effort to become the second player this year to beat Djokovic after Roger Federer did in the French Open.

Stunning collapse costs Dufner a championship

Keegan Bradley won the PGA Championship yesterday with one of the greatest comebacks in major championship history.

Bradley was down by five strokes after a triple bogey on the 15th hole of regulation. Jason Dufner appeared to have the title wrapped up, but Bradley rallied and Dufner collapsed.

Dufner put his tee shot in the water at 15, setting up the first of three straight bogeys. Bradley made birdies at 16 and 17, going to the final hole suddenly tied for the lead.

Both players made par on the 72nd hole, but Bradley won the three-hole playoff by a single stroke. He tapped in for par at the 18th hole and lifted the Wanamaker Trophy in Johns Creek, Ga.

B.C. squad earns trip to World Series

The hardest part was containing the enthusiasm.

The emotions bubbled over for the team from Langley on Saturday when pitcher Yi Fan Pan struck out the final batter in a 11-0 victory over Valleyfield, Que., in North Vancouver to win the Canadian Little League Championship in four innings.

The win sends Langley to the Little League World Series later this month in Williamsport, Pa. But that's in the future.

"I still can't believe it," said Cole Cantelon, who had a home run in a second inning where Langley took control of the game by scoring seven times. "It's so awesome. This means everything.

AMR
I love you. You are the best that ever happened to me, you make me complete. I miss you terribly and can't wait to come back in your arms because only then I will know that everything is all right. You are my one true love and I feel so grateful that I have you in my life... you who accept my flaws and love me the way I am. Sweetheart, I love you. I miss you. Happy birthday! FROM AER

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Speak your mind today and if others don't like what you have to say that's too bad.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 This is not an easy time of year for you but, as always, you will rise to the challenges that come your way.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 You will be at your imperious best as the new weeks begins.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Don't commit yourself to anything that cannot be changed at a moment's notice.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 No matter what problems or difficulties you may encounter over the next few days you will deal with them all with ease.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You will certainly make an impression today but will it be the right sort?

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Most people you deal with today will give you what you desire without having to be asked twice.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 A door that has been closed to you in the past is at last starting to open but for some reason you seem reluctant to pass through.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Stay calm and don't get carried away with your own success.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 If your attitude is right you'll do a wonderfully good job.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Is what you are doing with your life what you want to be doing a year from now?

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. Break out of the rut you are in and learn to enjoy living close to the edge. SALLY BROMPTON
